Ohio University Men Make Contributions To Uncle Sam's Wide-Spread War Efforts

Sgt. David J. Hyslop, Jr., '40 (see picture) Geneva, O., of the 5th Corps Area Quartermaster's Office, indicates exactly how every American soldier is to wear the two identification tags furnished by the Army's Quartermaster Corps. The new tags are identical and formerly were made of stainless and rustproof monel metal.

U. S. Signal Corps Photo
Sgt. David J. Hyslop, Jr.

Stainless steel has been substituted because of nickel scarcity. They are two inches long, one and one-eighth inches wide and 0.025 inch thick with rounded corners and smooth edges. Besides the soldier's name and serial number, the tags carry the name and address of the person to be notified in case of an emergency, the soldier's religion, date of completion of tetanus immunization, and his blood type. The new tags are superior to the aluminum disk issued to World War I troops, being rustproof and of longer lasting quality material. Furthermore, the World War I disk did not contain the valuable medical information contained on the new tags.

Notable among the statements that will appear in any biography of Lieut. William T. Johnston, '39, U. S. Army Air Corps, will be this: "He flew for MacArthur on Bataan." Bill Johnston, a Cleveland boy arrived at Manilla last Thanksgiving Day as a pilot in a bomber squadron. He won his "wings" at the Army Air Base, Selma, Ala., and was assigned to a pursuit squadron. Later he was transferred to the ferry command but before he could take up his new duties he was shifted to the bomber squadron and ordered to the Philippines. A cablegram received by his mother on Dec. 16 reported that "everything's fine." Lieut. Johnston's brother, Robert D. Johnston, '42x, who was rejected by the Air Corps because of astigmatism, was inducted into the army in February. He holds a private pilot's license and was a high school instructor in Parkersburg, W. Va., prior to his induction.

Not only Ohio University men, but Ohio University women as well, are to be found in Uncle Sam's service in far-away places. Two alumnae, Lieut. Ruth A. McCullough, '37, The Plains, and her classmate, Lieut. Eleanor L. Kent, '37, South Bend, Ind., of the Army Nurse's Corps, are now in Australia. Both graduated from the Frances Payne Bolton School of Nursing at Western Reserve University and both were associated with the Cleveland Visiting Nurse Association.

"Already," reports Lieut. J. Edward Job, '40, East Cleveland, "I feel like an old soldier. I've spent many months with the 367th Infantry. At Fort Benning I received a certificate of graduation from the Infantry School and I am now with the HQ Company, 3rd Army, at Fort Sam Houston, Texas."

Ray Densmore, '44x, who was reported in last month's Alumnus as having received injuries while fighting in the Philippines, wrote to his parents in a letter received through unidentified channels on April 1 that he had met Lieut. John P. Burns, '40x, while he was receiving treatment for machine gun injuries in a Red Cross first aid station. In an Easter Day short wave radio message transmitted by the War Department Ray gave home folks the following brief but encouraging information: "Progress normal."

A close friend of Lieut. Leigh S. Moorhead, '36 (see picture), Athens, is Lieut. Edward H. O'Hare, one of the ranking naval air heroes of the day. O'Hare is the flying ace who shot down six Japanese planes in one day during the attack on the Gilbert Islands and who recently was decorated by President Roosevelt, personally. Lieutenants O'Hare and Moorhead lived in adjoining officers' quarters when they were stationed as flight instructors at the Naval Air Base at Pensacola, Fla., two years ago. Moorhead, once a member of the "High Hat" bombing squadron attached to the U. S. Aircraft Carrier "Ranger," is now a naval aviation instructor at Norfolk, Va. Of his friend, O'Hare, he recently commented, "All this hero stuff probably brings a grin to the face of that Lucky Irishman—it's all in the day's work to him."

Harold A. Levin, '41, Atlantic City, N. J., is now enrolled in the Reserve Officers' Training School at the U. S. Coast Guard Academy, New London, Conn., at which, if successful in completing the course, he will be commissioned an ensign in June. This is the first training class for coast guard officers.

From Pvt. Ralph L. Dalton, '41, the Alumni Secretary has received a copy of the Scott Field Broadcaster, a rather sizeable newspaper published at the big army flying field near Belleville, Ill. Private Dalton is a member of the 369th T. S. Squadron in the Scott Field Radio School.

Carl H. Ott, '41, Hamilton, who co-starred with Frank Baumholtz, et al., on Ohio University's "Big Six" basketball team last year and who set a new Madison Square Garden record when he sank nine free throws in 10 tries, is now at Camp Wheeler, Georgia, where he was the big gun on the post team which won the Georgia State Independent basketball crown with a record of 19 wins against six losses.

Ovid S. Ray, '40, Blanchester, enlisted in the Army Air Corps last September, was trained as a bomb-sight maintenance man, and is now in Australia. His present whereabouts was disclosed in a cablegram received by his parents on April 11.

Lieut. William D. Wells, '37 (see picture), Grosse Pointe, Mich., had anything but a "happy landing" the other day when a big, twin-motored army bomber in which he was flying crashed during an attempt to take off from an estate near Marianna, Pa., where it had been forced down a few days previously. Another officer was at the controls of the B-18 when it crashed. Although the plane was a complete wreck all of the members of the crew escaped with minor hurts. Lieut. Wells is a member of the 6th Transport Squadron at the Middletown Air Depot, Middletown, Pa. Before entering the service he was a district sales manager for the Hercules-Campbell Body Co. at Waterloo, N. Y.

Lieut. Hugh K. Black, Q. M. C., '40, New Martinsville, W. Va., is on cadre at Fort Knox, Ky., to help form the 8th Armored Division. At the present time he is supply officer for the Supply Battalion. "Cadre," incidentally, is a military term for the framework of a regiment or other unit, usually consisting of at least the commissioned and noncommissioned officers, around whom newly enlisted or inducted men may be formed. Mrs. Black (Helen Haller, '42x.) is with her husband at Fort Knox. For other interesting news concerning the Blacks see "Births" on page 11.

Carl C. Krinn, '31, for the past 10 years a store manager for the F. W. Woolworth Co., most recently in Detroit, Mich., has enlisted in the U. S. Naval Reserve as a storekeeper, third class, and is now undergoing recruit training at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station, Great Lakes, Ill. This famous training post for Uncle Sam's tars now has a population of more than 45,000 men.

First Lieut. Fred J. Frazer, '40, U. S. M. C., on leave after ten months of sea duty during which, as President Roosevelt would phrase it, "he was in frequent contact with the enemy" in both near and distant waters, was a mid-April campus visitor. His visit was more than a casual one, for before he had left, Edith M. Maneggie, '40, secretary to the university editor, was displaying a diamond ring on her third finger, while her parents in Cleveland were announcing her engagement to the young Marine officer. The date of the wedding will depend very much upon Uncle Sam's plans for Lieut. Frazer.

Pvt. John P. Reed, '40, Uhrichsville, who enlisted in the Army early this year, is at present engaged in clerical work in the Headquarters Squadron, A. C. R. C., at Keesler Field, Miss. He was an accountant-cashier for the Peoples' Building & Loan Co. in Uhrichsville before signing up.

Benjamin F. Beckler, Jr., '32, former Athens county engineer, has been given the rank of first lieutenant in the Army Air Corps and assigned to duty at Santa Ana, Calif. Lieut. and Mrs. Beckler (Marian Danford, '37x) were residents of Atlanta, Ga., for fifteen months prior to the former's commissioning. In Atlanta, Mr. Beckler was employed by the Robert Architect and Engineering Co.

Aviation Cadet Peter B. Seel, Jr., '36, Athens, is nearing his "wings" at Ellington Field, Tex., the world's largest multi-motor advanced flying school.

J. Warren McClure, '40, Athens, who recently obtained a Master of Business Administration degree at Northwestern University, has enlisted in the Navy and is now attached to the Navy Recruiting Station in Athens. While attending Northwestern, he was a member of the staff in the advertising department of Armour & Co., Chicago.

Corp. Stanley S. Iwucz, '39, Cleveland, former varsity footballer, was a star on the gridiron squad of the Cavalry Replacement Training Center at Ft. Riley, Kan., last fall. The Centaurs, the Ft. Riley team, won the national cavalry crown. The Alumni Secretary does not know whether or not Trooper Iwucz is still at the Kansas post.

Major William K. Kincaid, '37x, a West Point graduate, is chief flying instructor at Hawthorne Field, near Orangeburg, S. C.

Harry A. Hess, '39x, son of Dr. J. A. Hess, professor of German at Ohio University, graduated from the U. S. Naval Hospital Corps School at San Diego, Calif., with the rating of hospital corpsman. Training at the school included the study of anatomy, physiology, nursing, and first aid. After leaving the hospital school he served as a corpsman in the psychopathic ward of the U. S. Naval Hospital at Mare Island, Calif., and is now aboard a naval vessel in the Pacific.

Vere O. Smith, '39, an instructor and assistant athletic coach in the senior high school at Mansfield, enlisted in the Navy this spring. After completing training at the Great Lakes Naval Station he remained at the station as a battalion clerk. Mrs. Smith (Kathleen Shannon, '33x) is temporarily residing near her husband's station.

Robert W. Coe, '40, Athens, has enlisted in the Army Air Corps and is now in the payroll department at Sheppard Field, Wichita Falls, Tex. He was in the accounting department of the National Carbon Co. in Cleveland prior to his enlistment.

Company B of the Second Regiment of the Ohio State Guard, under the command of Capt. Charles L. Woodworth, '22x, has received the Governor's Cup for excellence in marksmanship.

BULLETIN: Lieut. John P. Burns (see page one) was officially reported killed in action on Cebu Island in the Philippines on April 13.

Washington Chapter Honors Founder With Testimonial Dinner -- Other Groups End Year

Sixty-five members and guests of the Washington, D. C., chapter of the Ohio University Alumni Association attended a "surprise party" given by the group at the Garden House of the Dodge Hotel, March 27, in honor of I. M. Foster, '95, founder and first president of the chapter. Mr. Foster was retiring the following day after 25 years of public life in Washington as a congressman and as a commissioner of the United States Court of Claims. He has now resumed the private practice of law in the Nation's capital.

"Eddie" McWilliams, '12x, of radio and stage fame, was the toastmaster for the after-dinner program. Mr. McWilliams, who formerly lived at Virginia Beach, is now located at Charlottesville, Va. He was accompanied to the meeting by Mrs. McWilliams. Among those who expressed their good wishes to the retiring public official were Congressman A. D. Baumhart, '31, A.M. '32; Congressman Thomas A. Jenkins; Colonel Wilbur R. McReynolds, '15; Dr. J. A. Lyon, '40x, famous Eastern heart specialist; Miss Minnie Dean, '22; Dr. O. C. Stine, '08, a leading economist in the Department of Agriculture; Dr. Winifred Richmond, '10, government psychologist; Henry H. Eccles, '15, formerly of Portsmouth; John G. Laskin, '33, A.M. '36, former Ohio University football player and president of the chapter during the past year; and Flora Louise Juett, '38, chapter secretary. Noble C. Shilt, '21, Washington, national president of the Ohio University Alumni Association, spoke on behalf of the alumni organization. Clark E. Williams represented the university administration and the campus in expressing appreciation to Mr. Foster for his long and continued interest in alumni and university affairs.

One of the features of the evening was the reading by the toastmaster of 37 telegrams which were sent to Mr. Foster by Athens persons and organizations in recognition of the occasion were sung under the direction of McWilliams with Louis E. "Jeff" Grether '17x, at the piano.

Among these were greetings from the Athens County Bar Association and from a number of Mr. Foster's professional friends in Athens.

In the election of officers at the conclusion of the program Belford B. Nelson, '29, was elected president; A. D. Baumhart, vice-president; Flora Louise Juett, secretary; and Mrs. Bruce M. Buckmaster (Frances Foster, '22x), treasurer.

The Akron chapter, under the presidency of Ben J. Ansley, '25, held its twelfth annual banquet at the Y. W. C. A. on April 11. There were 46 members and guests present.

Vincent J. Jukes, '30, assistant professor of dramatic art and speech, spoke briefly of the extensive program of dramatics being carried out at Ohio University, following which he and four undergraduates, dramatics "majors," presented a clever one-act play, "Yes Means No," which was much enjoyed. Members of the cast were Amelia Cox, Lititz, Pa.; Antoinette Rini, Cleveland; John W. Bullock, Lorain; James H. Dyas, Shaker Heights; and Professor Jukes.

C. Don McVay, '15, Leroy, national vice-president of the general alumni association, congratulated the chapter upon its past record and urged that its high standards be upheld. He was accompanied to the meeting by Mrs. McVay (Ethel Beckley, '15, 2-yr.). University songs, sung "a cappella," were led by W. H. Edmund, '28.

Officers elected for the coming year were: President, John D. May, '39; vice-president, Paul E. Belcher, '22; and secretary-treasurer, Mrs. W. B. Armstrong (Shirley Watson, '36). The retiring officers are Mr. Ansley, Mr. May, and Verena White, '23.

The Y. W. C. A. in Coshocton was the scene of a dinner meeting held on April 17 by a small but merry group of 28 Coshocton county alumni and friends. Prof. A. C. Gubitz, head of the department of economics, was the guest speaker. Enthusiastic support was given to the song leadership of Congressman Baumhart, Mr. Foster, and Toastmaster McWilliams.

Alice Coleman, a former secretary of the chapter, presented the honor guest with a book and a leather travel kit on behalf of the group. A large bouquet of sweet peas was presented to Mrs. Foster.

On and About the Campus . . .

FIRE OF A mysterious origin, on March 22, burned two of three hangars at the Athens Airport and destroyed two dismantled training planes and all of the field and Civilian Pilot Training records. Student training had just been under way a few days under a new CPT contract. Thirteen airplanes were removed from the burning hangars by the quick work of several persons under the direction of the field manager, Hjalmar Olson, '40x. The Civilian Pilot Training program has now been resumed and the hangars will be rebuilt.

ANITA GOTTLIEB, Ohio University junior from Cincinnati who won the state oratorical contest for women on March 20, and Glendon J. Herbert, McArthur senior, winner of the state contest for men on February 20, placed third and fourth, respectively, in the national oratorical contest held at Northwestern University on April 23. Miss Gottlieb's victory marked the ninth time in twelve years that an Ohio University orator under the direction of Prof. Loren C. Staats, '26, has been victorious in the state contest. It is the third time that both the men's and women's contests have been won the same year. During these twelve years, five second places have been taken in addition to the nine firsts. This gives Ohio University one of the outstanding speech records in the nation.

COLONEL THOMAS F. McNeill, U. S. A., former commandant of ROTC cadets at Ohio University who retired from active duty last June and who was later recalled to duty to serve in a similar capacity at Washington State College, Pullman, Wash., has recently been made second in command at Fort Slocum, N. Y., a port of embarkation.

SIX ADVANCED students in the School of Home Economics have moved into the new home management house at 30 University Terrace, just north of the "Ag" Building, where they will learn the most effective use of time, energy, and money in managing the modern household. The old home management house on East Union Street will be continued in use, the new unit being required by the expansion in the growth of the Home "Ec" school. The new 10-room unit, for many years the home of Miss Nellie Van Vorhes, who was a long-time member of the faculty in the School of Music, was completely remodeled and redecorated before occupancy.

THE ANNUAL Mothers' Week-end, April 24-26, brought more than 1,000 mothers of Ohio University students to the campus for a gala program of events which included musical and dance concerts, teas, dinners, athletic contests, and dramatic performances. Mrs. H. A. Robbins (see picture), of Jackson, Ohio University's first gold star mother of the war was Honorary Mother of the occasion. Mrs. Robbins' son, Lieut. John Robbins, U. S. Army pilot, who was killed in a plane crash near Savannah, Ga., last December, was a student at Ohio University from 1937 to 1940. Another son is a freshman this year. Two other sons are now in the service, one in the Army Air Corps in Australia, and the other, a midshipman at the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis.

INTENSIVE short courses in typing and shorthand will be offered at Ohio University this summer to help relieve the shortage of government personnel. The courses are designed to qualify students for civil service positions. Successful completion of an eight-week course will fit most students for typing jobs in government service and industry. Students completing two eight-week courses or one 16-week course should be able to meet civil service requirements for higher stenographic and typing positions by the end of this summer, according to Dean A. H. Armbruster of the College of Commerce. The secretarial studies speed-up is also designed to meet a serious shortage of teachers in this field in Ohio high schools. Anyone who is eligible for admission to the university may enroll for the courses.

MISS Constance T. MacLeod, for 31 years a member of the Ohio University faculty, died April 12 in a Cincinnati hospital. She was supervisor of the Kindergarten School and professor of education at the time of her retirement in 1938. Miss MacLeod had been living in Cincinnati with a sister, and had been ill since last December.

ANATIONAL survey of freshmen orientation programs and war-time problems has been completed by Ohio University personnel officers for the National Association of Deans and Advisors of Men. Ohio University's dean of men, Laurence W. Lange, was appointed by the National Association to conduct the survey which investigated outstanding features of academic orientation programs and the effect of war on orientation procedures in all sections of the country.

OHIIO University has a new musical organization, a salon orchestra, which has been established under the direction of Gordon Kinney, instructor in violincello, to provide a small, versatile, orchestral group for student training, for appearance in chamber music concerts, and for use at various university functions. There are 17 pieces in the orchestra.

GOVERNOR Bricker has appointed Dr. A. T. Volwiler, professor of history, to membership on a commission, the function of which will be to collect, preserve, and eventually to compile data relative to Ohio's role in the war.

Israel M. Foster and Mariana Bing Will Appear on Luncheon Program

Under the newly-revised university calendar the 1942 spring commencement will be a one-day program to be held on Sunday, May 31. One week from the following day the new, three-semester year will be inaugurated with the opening of the summer semester.

Because of the "streamlined" program there will be no campus supper under the Elms, no receptions, no baccalaureate service, and no Sunday evening concert.

Among the traditional events, the academic procession, the graduation exercises, and the alumni luncheon have been preserved, however.

At twelve o'clock noon (Sunday, May 31) the alumni luncheon will be held at Lindley Hall, followed by a brief program to be presided over by Noble C. Shilt, '21, Washington, D. C., president of the Ohio University Alumni Association.

Advance reservations for the luncheon will be necessary. The reservations, at $1.00 per plate, should be made at the Alumni Office (by mail, telephone, or personal call) at as early a date as possible. The reservation dead line is Thursday evening, May 28. Alumni, faculty members, and seniors (each group having the privilege of bringing members of families or special guests) are invited to attend this annual affair.

The luncheon speaker will be Mr. I. M. Foster, '95, Washington, D. C., a former congressman and a recently-retired commissioner of the United States Court of Claims. Mr. Foster is the author of the Child Labor Amendment to the U. S. Constitution that is now awaiting ratification by the states.

Miss Mariana E. Bing, '28, instructor in music at William Woods College, Fulton, Mo., will be the luncheon soloist. She is a daughter of the late Dr. S. H. Bing, one-time president of Rio Grande College and, from 1923 to 1937, a member or director of the Ohio University Extension Division. Miss Bing also will sing at the annual convention of Kiwanis International which will be held in Cleveland early this summer.

Special table arrangements will be made at the luncheon for members of the Classes of 1892, 1902, 1912, 1917, 1927, and their guests.

The seniors will have an opportunity, in caps and gowns, to take "the long walk" from Ewing Hall, under the sweeping boughs of the century-old McGuffey Elms, to the Alumni Memorial Auditorium, where, at twenty-thirty Sunday afternoon, more than 400 of them will be awarded baccalaureate degrees. Fourteen masters' degrees and 21 two-year diplomas also will be awarded.

Mariana E. Bing

Washington Chapter Honors Founder With Dinner

Helen Foot, '30. Mrs. William Miller (Lola Sproull, '31x), chapter president, directed the program.

Succeeding Mrs. Miller, Alfred Hagelbarger, and Mrs. H. R. Burklew (Margaret Norris, '35, 2-yr.) as principal officers of the chapter are Marlowe C. Gamertsfelder, '40, president; Donald S. Shafer, '37, vice-president; and Geneva Elliott, '35, 2-yr., secretary-treasurer.

Another April 17 round-up was held at the Penn-Lincoln Hotel in Wilkesburg, Pa., when 42 members of the Pittsburgh chapter held their annual banquet.

The Keystone staters had as their campus guest B. T. Grover, '19, director of public relations, whose speech was followed by a showing of university movies. National President Noble C. Shilt, '21, was present and addressed the group briefly. Glen O. Gillette, '25, was the presiding officer. Associated with Mr. Gillette in planning the meeting were Gregg A. DeLong, '17, 2-yr., vice-president, and Mrs. Gillette (Nelle Everitt, '29, 2-yr.), secretary-treasurer.

Dean Heads Civil Pilot Training And Engineering Defense Program

Dr. William Morris Young (see cover page picture) is dean of the College of Applied Science and professor of electrical engineering at Ohio University. He has held these positions since coming to the university in 1937.

Dean Young was born Aug. 17, 1898, in Omaha, Neb. He graduated from the University of Illinois with a Bachelor of Science in Electrical Engineering degree in 1921. The following year he was awarded a Master of Science degree; while his Ph.D., received from the same institution, bears the date of 1926.

He was an assistant in physics at the University of Illinois from 1921 to 1926. The following year he was adjunct professor of physics, and for the next three years, associate professor of electrical engineering at Texas Technical College, Lubbock, Tex. The latter rank was held at the University of Iowa in 1930-31.

Dean Young went as a research engineer to the Taylor Instrument Company, Rochester, N. Y., with which he was associated for six years. He came to the Ohio University campus from the Rochester concern.

During various summer periods he has served as a research assistant in the Bell Telephone Laboratories, New York City; as a test engineer for the General Electric Company at Schenectady, N. Y.; and as professor of physics at the University of Omaha.

At Ohio University he is the coordinator of the Civilian Pilot Training program; institutional representative for the Federal Engineering Defense Training program; and director of the Athens Mechanics School, an aircraft and engineering mechanics school sponsored by the university.

The Ohio dean is a captain in the Signal Corps, United States Army Reserves, and is a registered professional engineer. He is a member of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education, American Association of University Professors, Epsilon Chi, Sigma Xi, Tau Delta Tau, Eta Kappa Nu, and Tau Beta Pi.

The new officers are: President, G. A. DeLong; vice-president, Wayne Shaw, '22; and secretary-treasurer, Mrs. H. A. Goddard (Jeanette Pilcher, '24).

Bobcat Baseball Squad Takes Measure of Big Leaguers on Great Lakes Naval Station Team

IN 1932 the Bobcat gridders blanked the U. S. Naval Academy team 14 to 0. This spring an all-star basketball squad from the Great Lakes Naval Training Station, which included all-American Frank Baumholtz, '41, handed the Bobcat courtmen a 54 to 35 setback, avenging the Annapolis reverse.

On April 29, at Ohio Field, Don Peden's diamond nine crossed bats with another Great Lakes team and are again one up on the Tars. This time they gave the sailors, whose team was liberally sprinkled with big league stars and was managed by Lieut. "Mickey" Cochrane, a 10 to 7 licking. Boatswain's Mate Frankie Baumholtz returned again to the campus of his alma mater, this time as center fielder for the navy boys.

It was the eighth straight victory for the Pedenmen and another scalp for the belt of Johnny Mlakar, Cleveland, the Bobcat pitching ace. Mlakar had previously stopped a strong Ohio State nine for their only loss of the season to date. The Great Lakes team had taken the Indiana University nine into camp, 13 to 3, the day before appearing in Athens.

Lieut. Cochrane, who has been a member of three and a manager of two pennant-winning teams in the American League, said after the game, "Ohio University has a team which ranks favorably with any college club I've seen."

Playing left field for the Sailors was big Don Pagett, former St. Louis Cardinal slugger, for whom the Brooklyn Dodgers paid $30,000 last winter. Other colleagues of Pagett's were Frank Pytlak, a ten-year man in the American League; Benny McCoy, of the Philadelphia Athletics; Johnny Lucadello, of the St. Louis Browns; Ernie Andres, of the American Association's Louisville Colonels; and a man, each, from the International and Mid-Atlantic Leagues. Paul Christman, All-American grid star from the University of Missouri, covered first base for the visitors.

The Bobcat baseballers have lost but one of the nine games played to date. The one loss was suffered in a two-game split with the Virginia Military Institute on a training trip into Virginia. Besides V. M. I., the Virginia Polytechnic Institute was met on the visit to the Old Dominion state. Ohio State, Ohio Wesleyan, Marietta, and Cincinnati have been other Bobcat victims.

Six of last year's regulars are missing from the 1942 squad. Only Bob Wren, Cleveland, remains from last season's infield. Wren, incidentally, is leading his teammates in clouting the pill, having an enviable average to show for his efforts at the plate. Likewise, only one letterman from the outfield, John Silvey, Oak Hill, reported to Coaches Peden and Wise this spring.

In the pitching department the holdover situation was much better, with Cliff Craig, Rinard Mills, Mlakar, Cleveland, Jim Harkness, Brewster, and Pete Lahch, Cleveland, all being available for mound duty.

Newcomers to the regular line-up who have made notable contributions to the team's strength are Bill Schively, Buchtel, first baseman; Charles Burdette, Akron, and Johnny Maldovan, Cleveland, pitchers; Bill Heinz, Cincinnati, catcher; and Tony Cramer, Cincinnati, right-fielder.

The schedule for the remainder of the season: May 2, Marietta, away; May 8, West Virginia, away; May 9, Pittsburgh, away; May 11, West Virginia, here; May 15, Cincinnati, here; May 19, Pittsburgh, here; and May 23, Ohio Wesleyan, away.

The Women's Gymnasium

IN CONFORMITY with the desires of the War Department and the United States office of Education, Ohio University has increased, for the period of the emergency, its physical welfare requirement. The physical fitness of young men and young women is a matter of interest and concern to the Nation at all times; in wartimes it is a matter of paramount importance.

Every Ohio University student, therefore, will be required to take a one-hour course in physical welfare each semester that he or she is in residence as a student during the emergency. This regulation becomes effective in September, 1942. Exemptions from the requirement will be granted for reasons of: (a) health, (b) age, (c) part-time load of eight hours or less, (d) part-time employment involving a large amount of time, effort, or physical activity, and (e) enrollment in courses which in certain of their phases are the equivalent of work in physical welfare. In the last instance exemption will be granted for that period of time in which the equivalent type of work prevails in the course.

The emergency requirement does not supersede but will include the present requirement of four semester hours of credit in physical welfare for graduation. Now, however, the basic courses in military science may not be substituted for the minimum requirement in physical welfare.

THE OHIO University Health Service Regulations have recently been amended to provide that, unless there is parental objection, each freshman shall be given, as a part of his routine physical examination, a blood test for syphilis and a skin test for tuberculosis.

Here and There Among the Alumni

Some years ago friends of the late Dr. DAVID J. EVANS, '71, for 39 years a member of the Ohio University faculty in the department of classical languages, and for whom one of the residence halls in the men's dormitory was named, established two memorial prizes for excellence in Latin and classical studies. These prizes, given on Honors Day, April 24, were received by Helen A. Carle, Barnesville, and Clara J. Mohler, South Akron, both juniors. The Super Greek Prizes, consisting of first and second places, were established by former students and friends of the late Dr. Charles W. Super, a one-time president of Ohio University and professor of Greek. The awards are based upon the extent and quality of work done in courses in the Greek language and literature and in courses dealing with Greek civilization and classical culture in general. These prizes, the largest awarded at the Honors Day Convocation, amount to $100 and $50 and were received by William Meredith, Chillicothe, and Regina E. Sulenski, Youngstown, respectively. Meredith is a senior, while Miss Sulenski is a junior.

The recipients of the A. A. Atkinson Award in Electrical Engineering, made on Honors Day, were Roger C. Quisenberry, Syracuse (first), and Harry E. Ellerman, Jr., Huntington, Ind. (second). The A. A. Atkinson Award in Physics went to George F. Collins, Cuyahoga Falls. All prize winners were seniors. The two awards were established by A. A. ATKINSON, '91, who retired in 1937 from the deanship of Ohio University's College of Applied Science.

Lewis W. Gillilan, an executive of the New York City Telephone Co., and a son of the late LEWIS M. GILLILAN, '91, and Mrs. Gillilan (LIZZIE McVAY, '86), who now resides with her sister, Dr. Anna Pearl McVay, '92, at the latter's home near Athens, died recently at his home in Summit, N. J. Mr. Gillilan was reared and educated in Salt Lake City, Utah, where his father was a well-known educator for almost fifty years. The oldest daughter of the deceased, Dr. Lois Gillilan, attended Ohio University for two years, graduated from Vassar College, and is now a member of the faculty of the University of Michigan from which she received her doctorate. Among Mr. Gillilan's survivors are a brother, Paul M. Gillilan, '15, Erie, Pa., and two sisters, Mrs. C. T. Eakin (Ruth Gillilan, '16x), Pittsburgh, Pa., and Mrs. D. B. Welch (Anna Gillilan, '17), Springville, Utah.

WALTER J. BOTHWELL, '94, a retired postal employee of Monterey Park, Calif., attended a banquet of members of Phi Delta Theta fraternity in Los Angeles last spring at which time he was presented with an engraved card testifying to his fifty years of membership in this national social fraternity. He became a member of Ohio Gamma chapter at Ohio University in 1890.

ISRAEL M. FOSTER, '95, who retired last month after 25 years of public service in Washington, first as a member of Congress and then as a commissioner of the U. S. Court of Claims, has resumed the practice of law and is associated with the Washington firm of Littlepage, Littlepage, & Williams. He will specialize in practice before the Court of Claims and in the government departments. At a meeting of the Washington chapter of the Ohio Society held at the Shoreham Hotel on April 7, Senator Robert A. Taft and Mr. Foster were made honorary members of the organization; the former, because he had just completed three terms as president of the society, and the latter, because of his fifteen years of service on the society's governing committee. Senator Harold H. Burton was elected president for the coming year.

Dr. Josephus T. Ullom

Each year Dr. JOSEPHUS T. ULLOM, '98, prominent Germantown, Pa., physician, provides $25 to be awarded to the junior or senior premedical student who has attained the highest grade of work in courses offered by the department of zoology. The award is known as the John Bayard Thomas Biology Prize and was established by Dr. Ullom as a memorial to a nephew who met death several years ago in an automobile accident. The nephew was a son of JUDGE DAVID H. THOMAS, '96, and Mrs. Thomas (MARY ULLOM, '96), Marietta. The 1942 winner of the prize, which was presented on Honors Day, was Frederick Kittle, Athens senior. Dr. Ullom is a former president of the Ohio University Alumni Association.

WILLIS H. "BID" EDMUND, '28, who for the past six years was director of public recreation in Akron, has resigned to accept a position as manager of employees' activities for the Goodyear Aircraft Corporation in Akron. In his new position, "Bid" will have the responsibility of planning and developing a recreational program which will include athletic leagues, clubs, social recreation, and related activities.

In the February Alumnus there appeared a news item concerning WILFORD M. MAYERS, '28, former office manager at Singapore for the Goodyear Orient Company, and MRS. RUTH EVANS MAYERS, '29, and their daughter, Mary Ann. The details of this story were secured from a newspaper account that appeared early in February. More recent information, however, discloses that the Mayers were enroute from Java to the United States when their ship was torpedoed shortly after leaving Batavia. Their lifeboat jammed and capsized as it swung in the davits of the sinking vessel. The Mayers family group clung to a floating oar and other bits of wreckage. When approached by a lifeboat which was already crowded the officer in command announced that he could pick up only the mother and child. Mary Ann, though injured, refused to get into the rescue boat unless "daddy goes too," pointing out that her father also was hurt. Touched by the loyalty of the youngster the occupants of the craft made room for "daddy" at added risk to their own safety. After a 51-day voyage across the Pacific and through the Panama Canal the passengers of the torpedoed vessel were landed at New Orleans.

Mrs. Clarence A. Woodhouse (JEANNETTE BROWN, '28), Angleton, Texas, with her children, Marilyn and Emily, have returned to Ohio where they will remain, at least temporarily, while their husband and father, Lieut. C. A. Woodhouse, is engaged in army service. Dr. Woodhouse, a parasitologist at Texas A. & M. College, is a reserve officer and was called to active duty in the Veterinary Corps. He is a brother of Dr. GEORGE A. WOODHOUSE, '21, Pleasant Hill.

study of tropical birds and plants with recuperative efforts during his southern sojourn. He was forced to take a leave of absence from his teaching and administrative duties because of ill health.

CLINTON E. HORN, '29, New York City, is a radio technician in the Garden City, L. I., Research Laboratories of Sperry Gyroscope Co., Inc.

A feature story appearing in the Cleveland Press under date of April 16 told of the activities of Verle C. Kenney, '29, commercial artist, in designing all-wood toys for children to replace metal toys now rapidly disappearing from the market. Artist Kenney's toys designed for Beck & Wall Displays, Cleveland, are said to have created a flurry of excitement at the New York City toy show last month. Beck & Wall toys, which have the trade name "Playpal," include a doll cart in streamlined, Swedish style, painted white with powder blue and salmon pink trim; a wheelbarrow, rocking horse, giant field gun, dump and tow trucks, and a breakfast set. The designer gets his notion of what will "take" with the kiddies from the children themselves. "Actually," he says, "an adult has no idea of what a youngster likes in a toy. I took all my model-home and tried them out on Susan (his 14-month-old daughter) and her gang. I learned from the way a child gripped a toy that it had to be ready to withstand a young tornado. I discovered that a rounded edge was better than handles on a seesaw because handles got in the way of a tot's knees." Shown in the series of pictures with which the newspaper story was illustrated were Mrs. Kenney (Betty Bryan, '34) and Susan Elizabeth. Mr. Kenney has been an artist-designer for Tranquillini Advertising Art, Inc., for the past seven years. Tranquillini acquired the Beck & Wall concern several months ago.

THOMAS A. WOOD, '29, formerly with the General Motors Acceptance Corporation and later a claims examiner for the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation, has recently been appointed as representative of the bureau in Athens, Vinton, Hocking, and Meigs counties. The creation of Mr. Wood's new post is the result of the federalization of the state employment service. He will be responsible for those duties pertaining to unemployment compensation formerly handled by the managers of local employment security centers in this area.

NOLAN P. SWACKHAMER, '30, head coach of athletics at the high school at Glenford, Perry county, who coached his Golden Horde basketballers to the state Class B title in 1941, has announced his intention of giving up coaching to become the head of a large dairy farm formerly operated by his father-in-law.

Although the source of the information is not now identifiable, from somewhere or other word has come to the Alumni Office of the marriage of ELMA V. STOUT, '30, to a Mr. J. H. Robinson during the past year. Mrs. Robinson's present address is 649 Washington Ave., Clarksburg, W. Va.

Y., has, with Mrs. Alden (IRENE FRANCE, '31, 2-yr.) and their two children, Priscilla Joan and John Lynn, returned to his home city of Athens where he is now associated with the Athens Flooring Company.

In his syndicated newspaper column on March 11, Walter Winchell mentioned that SAMMY KAYE, '32, nationally-known band leader, had turned over $2,000 in royalties from his song "Remember Pearl Harbor" to the Navy Relief Fund and that he promises that much more, soon. Sammy and his "Swing and Sway" boys are now in Hollywood, where, with Sonja Heinie, Jack Oakie, and John Payne they are now making a picture, "Iceland," for Twentieth Century-Fox. It is a wartime picture dealing with a romance between an American soldier and an Iceland girl.

Mrs. William C. Wallace (JEAN LAIRD, '33, 2-yr.), Coshocton, is pinch-hitting for her husband on the editorial staff of the Coshocton Tribune while he serves as second mate on a vessel operated by the U. S. Maritime Commission. The ship, in the merchant marine service, plies between Atlantic Coast ports and ports in Central America.

The little miss pictured in the center of the page is Mary Ann Guthrie, daughter of HAROLD F. GUTHRIE, '33, and Mrs. Guthrie (LILLIAN XARISSA KITTLE, '32), of Bedford. This young lady of two years is dressed in the gown which her maternal great-grandmother, Caroline Xarissa Falls, wore when she was the same age. Mr. Guthrie is supervisor of instrumental music in the Bedford schools. The picture of Mary Ann and the information concerning her dress were provided by ROWENA G. SPROUT, '32, Athens, editor of The Radius, the official publication of the Council of Kappa Beta, a Fellowship of University Women of the Disciples of Christ Church. Mrs. Guthrie is a former national vice president of Kappa Beta.

HARLEY B. PICKETT, JR., '34, a member of the Athens Squadron, Group 5110, Civil Air Patrol, is known as Meigs County's "flying school teacher." Pilot Pickett teaches school science and industrial arts at Columbia High School, Carpenter, and is acting principal of the school. He owns his own plane, a Piper cub, now hangered at the Marietta Airport. He displayed his first interest in airplanes when at the age of seven he ran away from his mother and father at the Athens County Fair to watch LOWELL H. CHASE, '21, a World War flying instructor, take up passengers from a nearby field at $15 a ride.

After resigning her position as a reporter on the McConnellsville Herald ROBERTA SWINDELL, '40, accepted the position of society editor on the Wooster Daily Record.

WILLIAM R. MERKEL, '41, East Cleveland, was one of many persons who expressed annoyance at the lack of mention of Ohio University in an article on William Holmes McGuffey which appeared in the April issue of the Readers Digest. The omission was doubtless noted by many friends of Ohio University. The explanation of the author's slight, intentional or otherwise, may lie in the fact that the story dealt largely with McGuffey's famous "Readers," and these readers were written and compiled while McGuffey was a member of the Miami University faculty. Further, McGuffey's experiences as president at Ohio University were not very happy ones, and his biographers may have slighted us on that account. Under the terms of the act establishing Ohio University it was necessary, at a stated time, to re-appraise the college lands which had been given for the support of the school. It was anticipated that the reappraisal would result in increased rentals and, therefore, provide the university with a greater income. It happened that Dr. McGuffey was president of Ohio University at the time the reappraisals were to be made. The lease-holders, being opposed to the upping of their rents, fought the proposition and caused the president all of the trouble possible. He was severely condemned and obstructed by persons who should have been his supporters.
